City wins Supreme Court lawsuit

Drain Commissioner improperly levied assessments

The Supreme Court of Michigan last week ruled that the Wayne County Drain Commissioner illegally collected drain assessments to pay administrative expenses and supported former Romulus City Treasurer John Lewkowicz contention that an injustice had been done to those taxpayers who paid the levy.

In an opinion by Chief Justice Mary S. Coleman, joined by justices Mennen Williams, John W. Fitzgerald, James L. Ryan and Blair Moody, the court held that the drain commissioner improperly and illegally levied assessments against the property of taxpayers in the City of Romulus and the six neighboring communities of Van Buren, Huron, Canton, Lincoln Park, Riverview and Brownstown. Lewkowicz, who served as Romulus city treasurer in 1979, challenged Wayne County Drain Commissioner Charles Youngblood in a suit filed in July of 1976 over the legality of assessing property owners to pay administrative expenses of a drain commissioner.

The class action suit was heard in the Michigan Supreme Court and had several legal ramifications. It was the first time a city treasurer of a community withheld taxes from the county if the treasurer truly believed that the taxes were improperly assessed," Lewkowicz said.

"Obviously I am very happy and pleased to report that the taxpayers of Romulus and the communities involved have won a key lawsuit which means that we will get monies returned to us."

Lewkowicz said that through attorney Harry S. Ellman, who argued the case successfully for the city, the city would proceed to represent the class of affected taxpayers in Wayne County Circuit Court for a refund of approximately $650,000.

"The Drain Commissioner's administrative costs should obviously come from the Wayne County general budget and not from us. The law was changed in 1976 to make sure that such acts do not occur in the future, and this suit caused the law to be in effect."

"And I want to commend the courts, including the Michigan Supreme Court for a job well done and also commend the law offices of Harry S. Ellman, who represented the treasurer and the taxpayers of Romulus."

In November of 1976, the Court of Appeals released its opinion stating that Lewkowicz, through his attorney, was correct in bringing the action before the Wayne County Circuit Court rather than the Michigan Tax Tribunal. Usually, all tax questions and questions on assessments end with the Tribunal.

The Drain Commissioner, not satisfied with the lower court's opinion, petitioned the Supreme Court which, on July 2, 1982, ruled against him and in favor of Romulus and the other participating communities.

McAnally urges city to review pension plan

Should the City of Romulus shop around for a better pension plan for its employees?

City Treasurer Beverly McAnally believes so.

In a recent discussion with City Council, Mrs. McAnally urged council members to bring the pension plan in compliance with the city charter and recommended "that the entire pension plan be reviewed and quotes be received from other providers before an alternate plan is adopted."

Mrs. McAnally also was perturbed that certain amendments were made to the pension plan by "persons other than those designated and those who have the power" to do so.

Between 150 to 200 city employees are covered in the plan between the city and The Manufacturers Life Insurance Company, a corporation whose headquarters are located in Toronto, Canada.

According to a May 17, 1966 resolution adopted by council, the city treasurer is responsible for administering the pension plan.

"However, in researching the records," Mrs. McAnally said, "I can find only one incident where the city treasurer has functioned in that capacity and that was in 1970 where he signed an amendment." (Mrs. McAnally took office in 1979).

"However, there have been many amendments to the plan, and in my view improperly signed if the resolution of 1966 still prevails.

"My question is that not that we should do away with any of these things, but that they should be done properly and legally for the security of the pension plan, and for the security of the employees who are members of it," Mrs. McAnally said.

Mrs. McAnally stressed that if council and the administration doesn't move toward that direction, "then they should legally relieve the city treasurer of that responsibility."

"Also, equally important," McAnally continued, "I want to be sure that these amendments (to the pension plan) are good for the people and are bona fide amendments in good standing in court. But if they are signed by persons other than those designated and those who have the power or the authority to sign them, I'm thinking that they may not be worth the paper they are written on."

At least one member of council, John Lewkowicz, expressed concern that if the city voted to change insurance carriers at this time the accumulated benefits totalling more than $500,000 would be lost. He asked council to delay any action on the pension plan until a thorough study was made and presented to council.

Mrs. McAnally specifically felt that amendments to the pension plan that brought employees from the local District Court and an amendment where an employee was

A Riegler speaker

With the August 10 primary edging ever so closely, politicians and their wives and campaign workers are hitting the trail to gather in votes. On the trail last week was Lori Riegler, wife of U.S. Senator Robert Riegler, who was one of the many guest speakers at an area-wide Democratic Club meeting held in Van Buren Township. (The story is on Page A-2).

PCHA Board members debate rebate proposal

(Contributing to this story was ANP News Editor Sue-McDonald, Staff Writer Sue Bachand and Feature Editor Dennis Niemiec. The story is written by Niemiec.)

A majority of local representatives to the Peoples Community Hospital Authority are opposed to a plan, which would force the PCHA to return some $22 million in surplus funds to 24 member communities. Many of those polled by The Associated Newspapers questioned the legality of such a move, citing the need to make payments on bond indebtedness amassed through the construction of the authority's five hospitals. (See Chart, Page A-3).

Robert McLachlan, Dearborn Heights city clerk and one of 47 PCHA board members, said his proposal would affect only $22 million of nearly $30 million in surplus funds. Although his resolution to authorize a return of the monies to local governmental units was ruled out of order last week because it failed to appear as an agenda item, McLachlan's plan will appear before the board at its September meeting.

According to the resolution, funds would be distributed on a one-time arrangement based on the assessed valuation of each community. McLachlan said monies for area communities would be earmarked as follows: Belleville, $88,000; Huron Township, $286,000; Inkster, $550,000; Romulus, $1,210,000; Sumpter Township, $220,000; Van Buren Township, $704,000; Wayne, $836,000, and Westland, $1,958,000.

"These funds have been generated from interest earned on investments and surcharges (to non-member communities)," McLachlan said. "General economic conditions are playing havoc with local governmental bodies leading to a reduction in personnel and services. This would help put them in a healthy fiscal position."

"Giving the money back would still leave approximately a $7 million cushion," he added, "that is more than adequate and actually double the excess funds necessary for bond payment guarantees and reserves."

While the board directed its legal counsel to study the matter last Thursday, several members of the board expressed concern that any return of funds would place the authority in violation of its bonding ordinance.

"It's my understanding that the money is committed to pay the bonds," said Wayne Mayor Patrick Norton, the vice chairman of the PCHA board. "There are legal

Arcade ordinance back on council table

City Council last night was to take up the issue of the ban on arcade licenses. Council, upon the request of councilman John Lewkowicz recently placed a moratorium on the issuance of licenses until an ordinance is adopted by the city.

One of the stumbling blocks in lifting the moratorium is the proposed language in the ordinance. Lewkowicz has asked for wording in the ordinance that would establish strict controls by the city over all arcades.

However, a misunderstanding between Lewkowicz and City Clerk Raymond Cantrell and the City Attorney's Office, resulted in the proposed ordinance handling arcades in two types of categories: Class A arcade (those with three or more mechanical and electrical game devices) and a Class B arcade (those with two or less). This was not acceptable to Lewkowicz, he said.

At the May 25 council meeting, Lewkowicz moved to consider all arcades under one category. The motion was supported by Councilmen Jimmie Raspberry.

"The reasons why I oppose two separate categories is that we would not have control over the 'B' type arcade," Lewkowicz said. "The 'B' license application could be approved without a public hearing or notice. There would be no necessary notification to residents or citizens in the area where the arcade is to be established. And the arcade owner would not have to get approval from 51% of the residents within a 1,000 foot radius in order to install these machines."

"These are all necessary stipulations for those who are applying under the 'A' type license. I want them to be covered in the 'B'. I feel we need a strong arcade ordinance and not a watered down one in order to protect the best interest of the citizens of Romulus," Lewkowicz said.

Belleville area Jaycees will sponsor a "Wet T-Shirt" car wash on Sat., July 10, beginning at 10 a.m. to raise monies for the Fischer Library which serves residents of Belleville, Sumpter, Van Buren and Romulus.

The car wash will be held behind the Van Buren Fire Department on Fourth Street. Further information may be obtained by telephoning Steve Shelton at 697-0843.

Newly-picked Van Buren police chief Leonard Keller showed how quick he could get into a locked car when the keys inadvertently were left inside the vehicle. Keller returned to his vehicle with reporter Valerie Higgins to retrieve a photo for the newspaper, but discovered that his keys were inside the car.

He quickly got a coat hanger and "it didn't take him 10 seconds to open that door," said Mrs. Higgins. "I hope he can catch crooks as fast."

State Rep candidate challenges opponents to debate issues

Jim Kosteva, candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Representative in the new 37th Legislative District is challenging his opponent in this race to debate publicly.

"Because of reapportionment, most of the people in the 37th district will be choosing a Representative from unfamiliar names on August 10th," said Kosteva.

"In campaigning door to door in the new district, I have been surprised at the number of voters who were not yet aware of how they had been affected by reapportionment.

Because of the major changes that have been made in the district's boundaries, I think that it is particularly important that the voters have every possible opportunity to learn about the candidates and what they stand for."

While the candidates have been invited to speak before local clubs and service organizations, no opportunity has emerged for the candidates to present themselves to all of the voters in the district.

As a result, Kosteva has himself taken the unusual step of leading the effort to offer citizens a district-wide candidates night.

Kosteva expressed confidence the more the voters know about all of the candidates, the more intelligently they vote.

"I think that there are clear differences between my opponents and myself, not only on the issues but in commitment and enthusiasm as well," he added.

Dems hear Mrs. Riegler, problems of Reaganomics

Anyone who has driven over a county road knows that there's at least one pothole lingering in wait.

That favorite pothole has been sitting there because the revenue is not there to fix it.

Grace Hampton, chairperson of the Wayne County Road Commission, and other representatives of the commission, were on hand last week at the Western Wayne County Democratic Association's meeting to discuss roads and the problems the commission has with renovating them.

The Western Wayne County Democratic Association is an organization made up of members from Romulus, Canton, Belleville, Wayne, Huron, Sumpter, Van Buren, Flat Rock and Rockwood. Those communities included in the newly adopted 11th District of Wayne County, heard Grace Hampton, chairperson of the Wayne County Road Commission engineer, William Walker, outlined the methods of funding county road construction and maintenance.

Walker indicated that recent communications to local units indicating that dust palliatives would be applied only once this summer by the county and that further treatment would be at the expense and option of local municipalities, is only the beginning with further restrictions of funds expected to restrict winter road treatment as well.

According to Freddie Burton, commission member, matching funds from local units will increase the scope of use of existing funds.

"The more local communities who are willing to contribute to the care of the roads, the more we can do for all. We will certainly give priority to those who are willing to participate," he said.

Other business transacted included the adoption of by-laws presented by a committee headed by Edward D'Angelo of Belleville.

Recent meetings of the group featured a presentation by Jim Kosteva of Canton who outlined Solid Waste Disposal plans as prepared by the Wayne County Planning Commission and Gregg Whitney of the Ypsilanti Area Industrial Development Association who discussed new technologies for Michigan and methods of attracting new industries.

An area-wide conference of senior citizens, sponsored by the Western Wayne County Democratic Association, was held Thursday in Van Buren Township.

Moderated by Romulus Treasurer, Beverly McNally, the program centered on the effect of federal budget cuts on senior citizens' programs as viewed from the national, state and local perspective.

A capacity crowd of older citizens gathered to hear a panel of experts tell them that the news was bad and getting worse.

One slim ray of hope was offered by Judy Hollister, Assistant Director of Area Agencies on Aging Association, who urged the group to communicate with their elected representatives at all levels to tell them of their needs and use of existing programs such as nutrition, food stamps, transportation, housing subsidies and Social Security.

"There are cuts in all existing programs that are either proposed or about to be implemented, some of them are still not enacted and for those, it is not too late. May of the federal programs are being turned back to the states," she explained, "and by next year, the reserves will be gone."

Michigan anticipates a 21 percent reduction in funding through the Older American Act as a result of budget cuts.

Other reductions in the federal budget show a 3.6 billion cut in Medicare; a $700 million cut in Medicaid; a $200 million cut in SSI; a $2.2 billion cut in food stamps and reduced appropriations for subsidized housing and energy assistance.

Martha Baumgart, Subsidies Officer for Federal Programs and Systems Service of the Michigan State Housing Development Authority, offered no brighter forecasts telling listeners that the future of Senior Citizen housing was that of change with terms like "Reverse Mortgage," "Congregate Housing," and "Housing Vouchers" to be among the new language associated with the new approaches. Existing housing for seniors such as the Romulus Towers, Wayne Towers and Garden City Towers, all funded through MISHDA, will continue under the current financing with a probable increase in the percentage of income to be paid as rent increased from 25 percent to 30 percent.

Van Buren Park site of Ford birthday picnic

Live music, games, contests, door prizes and gifts for the children will highlight the 1982 Congressman William D. Ford Birthday Picnic set for July 31 at Van Buren Park in Van Buren Township. Picnic Chairman Harry Brunner announced today.

Cancelled in 1981 because of scheduling conflicts with the previous park site, the annual "old fashioned, country-style picnic" runs from noon to 6 p.m. Van Buren Park is located behind Chatham's at the South I-94 service drive and Rawsonville Road, and features a large children's playground and a limited number of individual charcoal grills.

"All residents of the 15th Congressional District — both those from the "old" and the "new" districts created under the May congressional redistricting plan — are invited to attend," Brunner said. "These communities include Belleville, Brownstown Township, Canton Township, Dearborn Heights, Flat Rock, Garden City, Gibraltar, Huron Township, Inkster, Livonia, Rockwood, Romulus, Southgate, Sumpter Township, Taylor, Van Buren Township, Wayne, Westland and Woodhaven in Wayne County; Augusta Township, Milan, Saline, Superior Township, York Township, Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti Township in Washtenaw County; and Ash Township in Monroe County."

In past years, from 6,000 to 8,000 persons have come to honor the Congressman and munch on hot dogs, kielbasa, popcorn and corn-on-the-cob, cooked with the aid of a large, antique steam engine. Beer and soft drinks are also provided.

Picnickers will be charged $10 per carload, with a maximum of seven persons per vehicle. An extra dollar per person will be charged for more than seven persons, not counting children under seven years of age. Senior citizens will be admitted for a reduced fee of $2.00. While there are no other overall charges, those who use pitchers for beverages will be charged a $2 deposit.

'Rebate proposal' triggers PCHA controversy limitations involved — by law we must maintain a surplus to protect the bond indebtedness."

In addition to the legal uncertainty surrounding the proposal, the potential financial rebate has raised a philosophical difference of opinion on the purpose of the Authority, which is financed in part by a 4/10 of a mill levy on state equalized valuation in the participating communities.

"This (proposal) could destroy the long range planning of the PCHA," Norton declared. "The prospects of entering the long-term health care field are under study."

"Nearly everyone has had or heard of a sad experience regarding a convalescent home," continued Norton, who also serves as the PCHA's Long Range Planning Committee chairman. "Doesn't it make sense that one of the best health planning institutions in the United States consider going into the long term care field?"

"We can't do that if every single dollar is dissipated."

McLachlan admitted that a "well intentioned" group of PCHA board members favored an expansion into other health care endeavors. He noted that the PCHA board is considering the purchase of a nursing home facility in Wayne; and last week also approved the purchase of 8.6 acres adjacent to a medical center it owns jointly with Oakwood Hospital in Brownstown Township.

"I've hit a nerve with this resolution," explained McLachlan. "I also favor lowering the millage rate to communities and reorganizing the board. A bill has been introduced in the House of Representatives to limit the number of votes per community to one and expand the executive committee."

He claimed that opposition to his resolution to return the $22 million was "an exercise in real power politics."

According to a PCHA spokesman, the Authority paid $3.6 million to service its bond debt this year (approximately $30 million in outstanding debt remains). Operating revenues of $114 million and expenses of $112 million were reported during the 1980-81 fiscal year.

Based in Wayne, the PCHA owns and operates five hospitals — Ann Arbor in Wayne; Beyer Memorial, Ypsilanti, Heritage, Taylor; Outer Drive, Lincoln Park, and Seaway, Trenton. These hospitals provide more than 1,200 beds, emergency facilities, out-patient services and various related health care services.

Norton termed McLachlan's position a "grandstand play" and said any monies returned to Wayne would have the greatest benefit to local industries since Wayne's contributions to the PCHA come from a special assessment.

"We'd be giving approximately 63 percent of the money to Ford Motor Co.," he declared, "even if it were legally possible. And that's the way it would be in almost all of the communities."

"It's difficult to argue against his (McLachlan) proposition, it's like talking against motherhood. People don't seem to care these days. They want taxes reduced and that's all that appeals to them."

Milt Mack, a PCHA board member from Wayne, referred to the $22 million as a "one-time windfall that would leave PCHA broke."

"Cities simply have got to learn to live within their budgets," he asserted.

McAnally urges review of pension plan

allowed to participate beyond the normal retirement were in violation of the plan's provisions.

"One could say that these amendments were illegally added, however, I'm not an attorney. I feel that if the designated people haven't signed it, then I think the legality (of the amendments) is very questionable."

Council moved to select a member to serve on the pension board.

Mrs. McAnally said that she would favor a change in insurance companies only if it would benefit the employees involved.

"My opinion is that nothing we do in this life and particularly in profit motivated businesses like pension plans where the insurance companies make an enormous amount of money can't stand some examination."

"For some mysterious reason after I got sniffing around in all of this about a year ago, the pension company suddenly came up with an alternate plan that was going to be a lot more beneficial to the city and to the depositors."

Mrs. McAnally said that she realizes that "whenever you withdraw from such a plan there could be penalties, usually 2 to 3 percent and in some cases even greater, however, we actually have $893,000 in the plan and it's book value is over $1 million."

"I suppose if we withdrew from that plan we would have a penalty — I don't know. I haven't talked to the agency yet. But they do know we are serious about this and they will be talking to us in the near future."

"But let me conclude by saying this: If we should discover that we can take that approximately $900,000 and go with some other plan or other group and maximize our benefits to offset any penalty, and that it has greater benefits as time went on, maybe that would be wiser to do."

"However, I don't know if we would or wouldn't. What I'm saying is it would be very foolish not to study this when interest rates are what they are."

"And if I'm going to be held accountable for the plan, then let me do it. I'm not advocating any change of company or anything else until all the facts and figures are in," McAnally said.

Van Buren selects police chief

The Van Buren Township Board of Trustees last week named a graduate of the FBI Academy and head of the police department in Hinckley, Ohio, as its new police chief.

Leonard Keller, 33, got the job and the $25,500 annual salary to rebuild the local department that has been a hub of controversy for the past six months.

Keller said he sees the new position as "a challenge" and looks forward to his new job.

"However, I have not yet had enough opportunity to examine the inner workings of the Van Buren Police Department," Keller said on Tuesday during a telephone interview from his office in Hinckley. "I would like to make an in-depth study in order to make a proper assessment as to what it will take to provide the level of services which the trustees would like to provide, and what the residents of Van Buren Township deserve."

Head of the Hinckley Township Police Department for the past four years, Keller and his department are responsible for providing law enforcement for 6,000 residents in a 27-square-mile area.

Six of the seven Van Buren Township Board members voted to hire Keller as the police chief. They acted upon a recommendation submitted to them by Bartell & Bartell Associates, a firm hired by the township to solve some of the problems in the local police department.

Keller's nomination received support from township supervisor Patricia Cullin, clerk Doreen Craven, police commissioner and trustee Tom Welty, and trustees Tim Toohey, Chester Wojciech and Thurston Jahr. The seventh member of the board, Darwin Kureth reportedly became ill and left the proceedings before the final vote was taken.

Keller was one of more than 150 candidates who applied for the position.

The newly-appointed chief said that "there will be further discussion and conversation with the Van Buren trustees and with Bartell & Bartell."

"But right now my wife and I are house hunting and that isn't an easy job," Keller said.

Keller concluded by saying that he perceived the "opportunity in Van Buren to be an excellent one and that the potential for building an excellent department exists there, but there has to be a blend between the board of trustees, myself, the officers of the department and the residents."

Dems hear Mrs. Riegle

Lori Riegle, wife of Senator Don Riegle spoke of the battle waged by her husband to save the Social Security System. She cautioned the group that the battle was not won, despite the Reagan administration's withdrawal from earlier hard-line stands that Social Security should be a voluntary program with greatly reduced benefits.

"It is not a dead issue," said Mrs. Riegle. "It is only temporarily side-stepped largely due to the great outcry from the public."

Benefits, such as the lump sum death benefit accorded in the past to survivors has already been eliminated, she said. Mrs. Riegle asserted that the myth that the system was bankrupt was incorrect and a ploy used to panic recipients and legislators to make changes in the system. She indicated that the crisis was philosophical rather than fiscal.

Others who spoke were Betty Ash and Veda Parker of Senator Carl Levin's office who amplified the need for frequent and pertinent communication with the elected people. "State your position briefly and clearly, use your own words, but write, it is important," said Mrs. Ash.

Greg Morris of Congressman Jim Blanchard's office told of the Congressman's interest and commitment to the security and welfare of the elderly.

Paul Petro, Director of the Out Wayne County Area Agency on Aging spoke and the meeting was concluded with remarks from Alton Shelly, Director of the Romulus Help Center who gave a stirring recap of the meeting's high points, asserting that at least as much emphasis should be given to securing the welfare of the elderly as that given to other foreign and domestic programs including defense.

Square dance, anyone?

The Steve Moore Orchestra will provide music for dancing on Saturday, July 17 from 8 p.m. to 11:30 p.m.

All you wanted to know about sunburns

Editor's Note: Dr. Ernest Sorini is Chief of Emergency Room Services at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. He did his internship and residency at the University of Utah Medical Center and has been in emergency medicine for five years. If you have questions for Dr. Sorini contact him care of Associated Newspapers Inc., P.O. Box 578, Wayne, Michigan 48184.

By DR. ERNEST SORINI

When it comes to things like sunburn, my mother was the world authority. No doctor from Zhiyago to Schweitzer knew more about life's little afflictions (like sunburn, diarrhea, and dandruff) then good old Mama Sorini.

"First of all, Mr. Smart Guy, sunburn comes from staying out in the sun too long" — amazing how mothers can think that they are bestowing on you something that most people have to go through college to learn.

Fact is, she was right. What most people seem to forget is that sunburn doesn't happen if you don't stay out in the sun too long. How long is long? Half-hour the first three times; one hour the second three times; and then as long as you want after that. Seems simple enough.

Not quite — there is a tendency for light-skinned freckled individuals to sunburn easily. This tendency can be overcome by two methods: (1) even less time in the sun to begin with, and (2)

the use of sunscreens containing PABA (Para-amino-benzoic acid).

"Another thing, Mr. College Graduate, if you get a sunburn, take a nice cool bath in water that has baking soda in it."

At first, I thought this was my mother's way of getting a un-leavened son, however, there does seem to be some, as yet unknown quality of baking soda, that seems to confer quick relief from sunburn pain.

Other things that are useful to control the pain of sunburn are topical medicines, like Solarcaine and similar topical anesthetic agents.

"You don't get medicine for a sunburn off the inside of the refrigerator door, Mr. Know-it-all," more wisdom. Smearing yourself with butter, cream cheese, or chicken fat does nothing more than draw flies and makes you smell like a delicatessen. You end up having to wash all this off anyway.

"Finally, Mr. Lobster, if you get a sunburn, remember it'll feel a lot better when it goes away." This is the kind of wisdom that Disraeli, Churchill, and King Solomon would have killed to acquire.

Nonetheless, the idea has some merit — although most sunburns will resolve within seven days, re-exposing yourself to the sun within that time period may result in a worse sunburn and a longer convalescence. "That's right, Mr. Smart-guy, if it's hot, don't touch it twice."

Legal Aid:

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Brian A. Walters is an Attorney at Law engaged in the general practice of law in Van Buren Township. He is a 1977 graduate of Oakland University and received his Juris Doctorate from Detroit College of Law in 1980. While attending law school he clerked for the Chief Judge of the 14th District Court and worked for the Consumer Protection Agency of Wayne County. If you have legal questions, please write Mr. Walters in care of Associated Newspapers, Inc., 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Michigan. His column will appear weekly in the ANP editions.)

In order to find a person guilty of operating under the influence of intoxicating liquor (O.U.I.L.), the defendant must meet the following test.

The test is whether, as a result of drinking alcoholic beverage the person is substantially deprived of his normal control or clarity of mind at the time he is operating the motor vehicle.

Under the influence of alcohol means that as a result of drinking, the defendant's ordinary judgement, common sense, mental state or physical coordination is significantly or substantially affected.

A person is under the influence of alcohol when he has consumed alcoholic beverages to such an extent that his brain, nervous system or muscle are affected, his ability to operate a motor vehicle is significantly diminished or decreased and he is no longer able to operate the motor vehicle in a normal manner.

The distinction between the crime of operating under the influence of intoxicating liquor and the lesser included offense of operating while visibly impaired (O.V.I.) is the degree of intoxication which the prosecution must prove.

To prove O.U.I.L. the prosecution must prove that the defendant's ability to operate was substantially and significantly affected by the consumption of intoxicating liquor.

To prove O.V.I., the prosecution must prove that the defendant's ability to drive was so weakened or reduced by consumption of intoxicating liquor that the defendant drove with less ability than would an ordinary, careful and prudent driver. Such weakening or reduction of ability to drive must, however, be visible to an ordinary, observant person.

I hope this clearly explains the difference between O.U.I.L. and O.V.I. To avoid problems with the differences. Do not drink and drive.

Steering toward Fair

Steering toward County Fair a month away, the Belleville County Fair will attract a wide range of animals and crafts. And one of the leading attractions will be "Simmental Steer" which will be exhibited by Tiffani Rae thanks to sponsor Lee Hall. The fair is expected to attract thousands during the second week of August.

New Boston sisters set their sights on County Fair

Two young and excited New Boston sisters are looking forward to the Belleville Fair, thanks to sponsors who put up the cash to purchase livestock.

Tiffani Rae, an 8-year 4-H member, and her sister, Tammi, also with eight years of 4-H involvement, are busy getting their steer projects ready for the Aug. 9 opening day of Fair.

Tiffani, who will be a senior next year at Huron High School, plans continuing her involvement with animals and attending Michigan State University for the field of animal husbandry. Her Simmental steer, Brashardo, was sponsored by Lee Hall, a local farmer in the New Boston area.

Hall has participated in past years as a 4-H livestock sponsor, and said he was pleased with the program.

This is the seventh year Tiffani has shown cattle and she will really be kept busy at the Fair this year, particularly on Thurs. Aug. 12, at the Annual Livestock Auction. She will also show sheep and swine at the Fair. Tammi has been involved with the Beef cattle project for five of her 8 years in 4-H. She would like to thank her sponsor, Mrs. Jan Murphy, whose son is a 4-H member enrolled in the horse project.

Mrs. Murphy expressed an interest in the Livestock Sponsorship Program during last years Fair. She has been a buyer at the Fair Auction in the past. Tammi and Tiffani appreciate the interest that these people have shown in their steer projects and hope to see them and other community members during Fair Week.

Romulus Scouts keeping busy

It's been a busy month for Romulus Girl Scout Troops from Hayti Elementary.

The annual festivities consisted of ceremonies, picnic, games, and a lot of fun for girls and leaders.

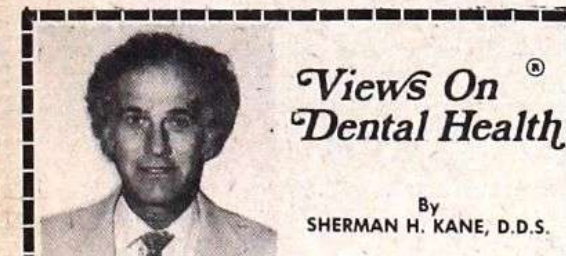

The most important event was the fly-up ceremony. The ceremony is to award special badges to girls going from Brownies into Junior troop. Those girls are: Melissa Fenton (529), Felicia Brindamour, Jennifer Holtschlag, and Heidi LaBo (454).

All the Scouts and Leaders had an exciting year.

Camping, community work, and receiving various badges are just a few of the activities the girls participated in.

Other Hayti Scouts are: Br. Troop 529: Lisa Hennings, Dawn Goodwell, Michelle Goodman, Patricia Cox, Alisha Counts, Diana Connelly, Michelle Harris, Dana McDaniel, Deane Copeland, Sarah Dean, and leaders Maureen McNally, and Michelle Kondraschow. Br. Troop 4454: Tanya Jackson, Jennifer Altizer, Tracy Holtschlag, and leader Gloria Brindamour.

And Jr. Troop 620: Sharon Walker, Tricia Mayne, Chris Mozug, Robin Bratcher, Venessa Baber, Michelle Wilson, Cina Jackson, Carol Chafins, Amie Conelley, Pam King, Terrie Kerekes, Denise Chafins, and leader Cheryl Mozug.

Views On Dental Health

By SHERMAN H. KANE, D.D.S.

OVERCOMING DENTURE "GAGGING"

The most common problem with new dentures is gagging. The presence of this foreign body (the denture) causes an increased flow of saliva which may cause a person to gag. A lozenge sucked continuously for the first few days will increase the rate of swallowing and thus get rid of the extra saliva. Within a few days, the body will gradually adjust to the new dentures.

The upper denture is held in place by adhesion and cohesion (suction). The back of the palate must be covered (sealed) for the denture to fit properly. Unfortunately, some patients have difficulty adjusting to the back end of the denture. They gag, feel uncomfortable and often plead with the dentist to shorten the denture. There is little the dentist can do. If he were to shorten the denture, the seal would be lost and the denture would no longer fit. Lozenges are useful, but it is up to the denture-wearer to adjust to the new environment. It might help to know that the full upper denture is almost always successful. But you must give your body a few days to get used to it.

A public service to promote better dental health. From the office of: SHERMAN H. KANE, D.D.S., 9840 Haggerty Rd., Belleville. Phone 697-4400.

The Westover Presbyterian Church in Greensboro, N.C. was the setting June 5 for the evening ceremony at which Diane Lee Joyner and Louis Bertrand Gallien Jr. exchanged marriage vows and wedding bands.

The Rev. David Krental presided at the seven o'clock rite which joined in marriage the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Balfour Joyner of Greensboro and the son of Mrs. Louis Bertrand Gallien of Romulus and the late Mr. Gallien.

Heading the bridal coterie were the bride's sister, Ashley Joyner of Greensboro, the maid of honor, and Curt Anderson of Upland, Ind., the best man.

Bridesmaids included Mary Rosser Woodroff of Washington, D.C.; Mrs. William Goans of Greer, S.C.; Madelyn Brinker of Charlotte, N.C.; Susan Perry and Evelyn Nelson of Greensboro; Catherine Caudle of Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Samuel Joyner Jr. of Greenville, S.C.; and Mrs. James Bailey Jr. of Raleigh, N.C.

Groomsmen were Bruce Winter of Elizabethtown, Ky.; Gregory Sharpe of Washington, D.C.; Gary Barkalow of Santa Ana, Cal.; Samuel Joyner Jr. of Greenville, S.C.; Kurt Keilhacker of Canton, MI. and Emil Dovan, Michael Moses and Robert Hall Jr., all of Greensboro.

The bridegroom's 8-year-old niece, Jenell Whitefield of Greensboro, performed as flower girl and his 7-year-old nephew, Troy Gilstorf of Romulus, was ring bearer.

A wedding breakfast for some 125 guests took place at 11 o'clock that morning at the Greensboro Country Club where the evening reception was also held. The newlyweds later departed for a week-long honeymoon in Bermuda.

The new Mrs. Gallien, a graduate of Randolph-Macon Woman's College in Lynchburg, Va., is employed in the Group Tour Division of Greensboro Travel Agency.

Her husband graduated from Taylor University in Upland, Ind. and received his master's degree from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

June 19 ceremony unites Roger Demmy, Karen Manier

Double ring vows were solemnized June 19 for Karen Manier and Roger Demmy, both of Romulus. The West Mound United Methodist Church of Taylor was reserved for the two o'clock nuptials read before some 30 relatives and close friends.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Bottomley of Charlotte, the bride entered the church to the strains of the "Wedding March". For her wedding day she selected a full-length lavender satin gown with a low-necked white lace bodice and full sleeves. She wore a three-tiered lace-edged veil and carried a bouquet of white daisies, lavender roses and white sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Kenneth (Kathy) Demmy, the bridegroom's sister-in-law, was honor attendant in a pale green toe-touching gown. Bridesmaids in multi-colored rainbow frocks were Kelly Manier and Kimberly Bottomley, sisters of the bride from Charlotte, and Robin Demmy of Millington, daughter of the bridegroom.

Jack Demmy of Romulus was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Rodney Demmy of Millington, the bridegroom's son; Jason Manier of Romulus, the bride's son, and Jeff Manier of Westland, the bride's cousin.

The newlyweds' new home on Eureka Road, Romulus, was the scene of the reception which followed with some 200 guests attending.

Mary Kosin to hold gavel at Home Arts in '82-83

The final gathering of the season for the Home Arts Club, the annual spring banquet, was held in May at the Pine Creek Country Club of Belleville. Fifteen members and two guests were seated at tables arranged with individual placecards and vases of spring blooms.

Prior to dining, the out-going president, Eula Haft, announced the officers for the 1982-83 club year: Mary Kosin, president; Toni Schwartz, vice-president; Linda Long, corresponding secretary; Mary Nactweigh, treasurer; Elinor Kenyon, program chairman, and her committee, Sharlene Tator, Betty Gott and Phyllis Breithaupt.

She, in turn, gifted her fellow officers with handmade needlepoint key holders. Program chairman Mildred Baker had ceramic ring boxes as thank-yous for her committee.

Entertainment for the evening was a fashion show of 15 spring outfits presented by Ms. Moss of Belleville. Fashion commentator for the casual-to-dressy clothing was Mildred Baker.

Suburban Living Editor

Observations and thoughts while shelling peas on a sunny last day in June — It's the good old, nothing-like-it summertime, the season to enjoy the wonderful out-of-doors. So, if you chance to find a narrow rectangular package in your mailbox one of these days, simply set it aside for the cooler stretch ahead. If anything will spur you to an untimely redecorating binge, a bedroom in particular, it's the first 62 pages of the new Spiegel's "dreambook" which I literally drooled over last night. No longer a shopping guide for the supposedly "hick" population (as the city folks used to refer to catalog-users), this is an album of sheer delight to peruse and exclaim over. Then be prepared for the bath section which follows. . . . DEBUNKING THOSE DIET MYTHS was the title of an article I found myself studying in the latest BH&G magazine, a convincing piece on why dieting is so important. A 3-pager, it went on for some 50 inches only to end up smack dab against a new recipe for orange-zucchini cake iced with calorie-loaded cream cheese frosting. Complete with color illustration, it was enough to make a grown gal cry — or dash into the kitchen to whip one up!

IT'S FUNNY HOW you never care what the weather is elsewhere 'til you've loved one "there." With "Y" (our youngest) across the Atlantic, you can bet we checked the temps in London and Paris and are now watching the listings for Switzerland, Austria, Germany and Italy. Chicago, of course, is watched as religiously as Detroit-Toledo just so we know whether that little "whippersnapper" of ours is in or out. . . . BET I NEVER MENTIONED the dream I had just before that first grandbaby was born? Well, in it we were all trying to come up with a name for the new heir and after a long debate, I (in typical EUREKA! fashion) came up with the clincher. "I know what we can call him," I exclaimed, "Whippersnapper!" On hearing of my little reverie, Lu and Pete passed the story onto their circle of college friends (known collectively as the "Zookeepers") who immediately dubbed the still-expected bundle "The Whip" and even sent him a T-shirt with that title inscribed. And — if you're into kids' clothing at all, you know there's a line designed exclusively for our Matt (ahem) and it's label is "Whippersnappers."

DON'T GET TO TRAVEL "foist klass" too often but when one gets to roll in a plush, customized Ford van (with all one's playmates over one set of wheels), it ain't too hard to take! . . . LEARNED

OVER A RECENT long weekend "Uppa North" (as the kids used to dub it) that the deer there are as curious about us human beings as we are about them. Hoofing it down to the golf course one A.M., I had two of the beautiful creatures stop dead in their tracks — in the middle of the road — and just stare at me as I approached. I thought for a few minutes I was actually going to have a conversation with them. . . . BELLEVILLE HAD A COUPLE WINNERS again this year at the Lost Lake Woods Invitational. The Deering Agency's own J.R. (Darryl Raymond) and his guest, Jack (Grove Road Car Wash) Paulsen, swung themselves into a fourth place (and 20 bucks apiece) in the third flite. As for our second flite champions from LAST year, "The Dutchman" and "Everybody's Favorite Hungarian", well — let's just say they had a heckuva good time trying.

PET PEEVE TIME: Although I thoroughly enjoy our daily newspaper, it has one annoying policy — running coupons back-to-back with recipes. It means having to copy, rather than clip, that good sounding dish if you want that coupon (and it's always a good one. . . . GOT ANOTHER ONE: Waitresses who ask women lunching together if "this is all on one check?" Now, come on, you wait-people (hate that term!) — 99 percent of the time one gal is NOT picking up the tab, okay?

WE'RE NOT BIG on television watching (golf matches, yes) but are you gonna miss "MASH" and "WKRP-Cincinnati" as much as we are? Oh, well, there's always a good book! And ALL those magazines to catch up on!

OH — YOU MIGHT LIKE TO KNOW — you get about 11 generous servings of peas from a scant half-bushel of pea pods. You also end up with green-trimmed thumb nails from popping them open. And a belly ache from re-routing too many sugar-sweet baby peas from pod to mouth.

STILL MORE ABOUT CANCERIANs

George M. Cohan, who became famous as the "Yankee Doodle Dandy", born on the Fourth of July, actually was delivered on July 3, 1878. But his parents' foresightedly gave his birth date as the fourth; being of the theatrical profession, they took advantage of the prime date.

The holiday most associated with the red, white and blue means double celebrations (backyard picnics, d'ya suppose?) for former U. S. Senator (hooper and actor) George Murphy who looked back on 80 years last Sunday. It meant 70 candles for ex-talk show hostess Virginia Graham; 58 for Eva Marie Saint; 71 for Mitch (Sing Along) Miller; and 54 for Italy's Gina Lollobrigida. It was also the anniversary of the birth of our 30th president, Calvin Coolidge, who would've been 110.

Detroit's Della Reese has a mutual natal date with Janet Leigh, being 51 and 55, respectively, on the 6th. That's also gift-time for Sylvester (Rocky) Stallone, 36; Ned Beatty, 45; and Merv Griffin, 57.

Today belongs to a couple pseudo doctors — Vincent (Dr. Casey) Edwards, who's 54, and Doc Severinsen, who's 55. Ringo Starr is also in on the act and is 42.

Singers Steve Lawrence and Billy Eckstine will be on the receiving end of vocals tomorrow when they are serenaded on birthdays number 47 and 68, respectively.

Life begins for Richard Roundtree on the 9th and on the following day for James Brolin (Dr. Welby's associate). Arlo Guthrie at 35 still has five years 'til that momentous occasion.

And if you, too, were born a cancer, your supersensitive feelings often get in the way of personal associations. You have been known to take offense at comments, situations and circumstances that were not even meant for your benefit. Regardless of that fact, you harbor hard feelings that sometimes seek an outlet through sarcastic retorts and a cold shoulder. You can't seem to bring yourself to objectively see and hear the other side of the situation. Your behavior tends to put other people on the defensive and you don't realize that they have feelings, too, and consequently can become very hurt and perplexed by your hostile remarks and moods.

Cancer males are proverbial family men, concerned parents who take an active part in their children's activities. Cancer women flourish in a committed relationship and are romantics who cry at weddings and snuffle over sentimental movies.

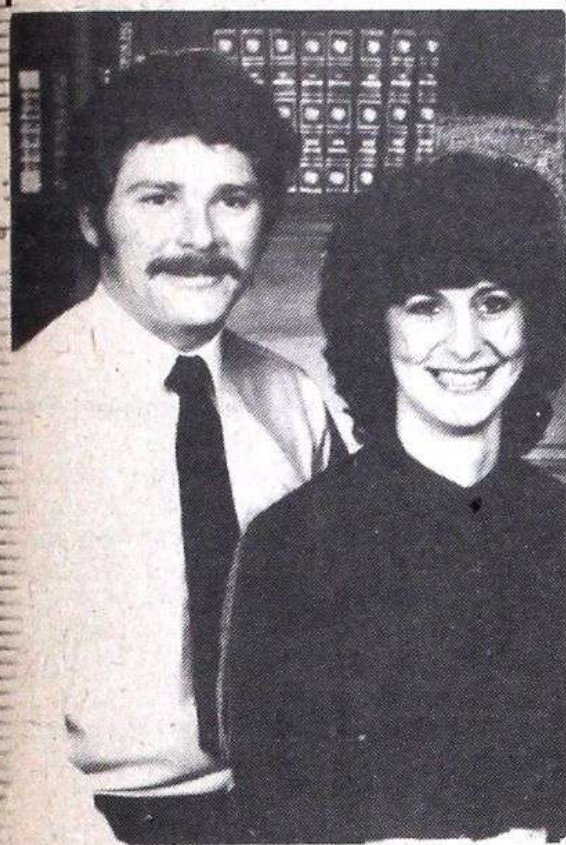

Both sexes crave a constant reassurance that they are loved, needed, wanted and appreciated and that their presence is pleasure-producing.

They have a highly creative imagination that could bring them recognition in the arts. Whatever they seriously undertake, they do it with an intensity that overtakes them. On the domestic level, chances are they're the do-it-themselves type who can create anything from a piece of furniture to a gourmet meal.

THE BOTTOM LINE: To err is human. To blame it on someone else is even more human.

PCHA rebate proposal served valuable purpose

Although the member communities may not receive one cent in the form of a rebate from the Peoples Community Hospital Authority, the recent proposal offered by Robert McLachlan, Dearborn Heights city clerk, did serve a valuable purpose.

McLachlan has proposed since the PCHA has amassed more than $30 million in "surplus," it should return the monies to the 20 or more communities affiliated with the hospital authority.

There are formidable arguments that protect PCHA from taking such action, including something called "bond indebtedness" and we doubt whether the hospital people could, even if they wanted to, return the money.

However, McLachlan's proposal does serve a valuable purpose. We believe that the people at PCHA got the message. They can't go to the market and buy what they want from now on. There are officials who are watching them, and very closely.

Unfortunately, some of the member communities should also take a second — and very long look — at who is representing them at the PCHA round table.

The Associated Newspapers' survey last week brought forth some startling facts. In fact, one PCHA member threatened our reporter "not to call him. He didn't want his picture in the paper."

Now, is that a way for a PCHA representative to act. And talk?

Others didn't even have the slightest inclination of what the reporter was asking. They appeared so divorced from the issue and issues of the PCHA that we began to wonder if they had ever heard about the authority or had attended a meeting.

Could it be this reason that the PCHA has had a "carte blanche" for more than four decades? That the checks and balances are not there?

One clerk told our reporter, "Our representative (to the PCHA) said the opposite of what this board had instructed him to do."

PCHA may have the license thanks to the state legislature to exist.

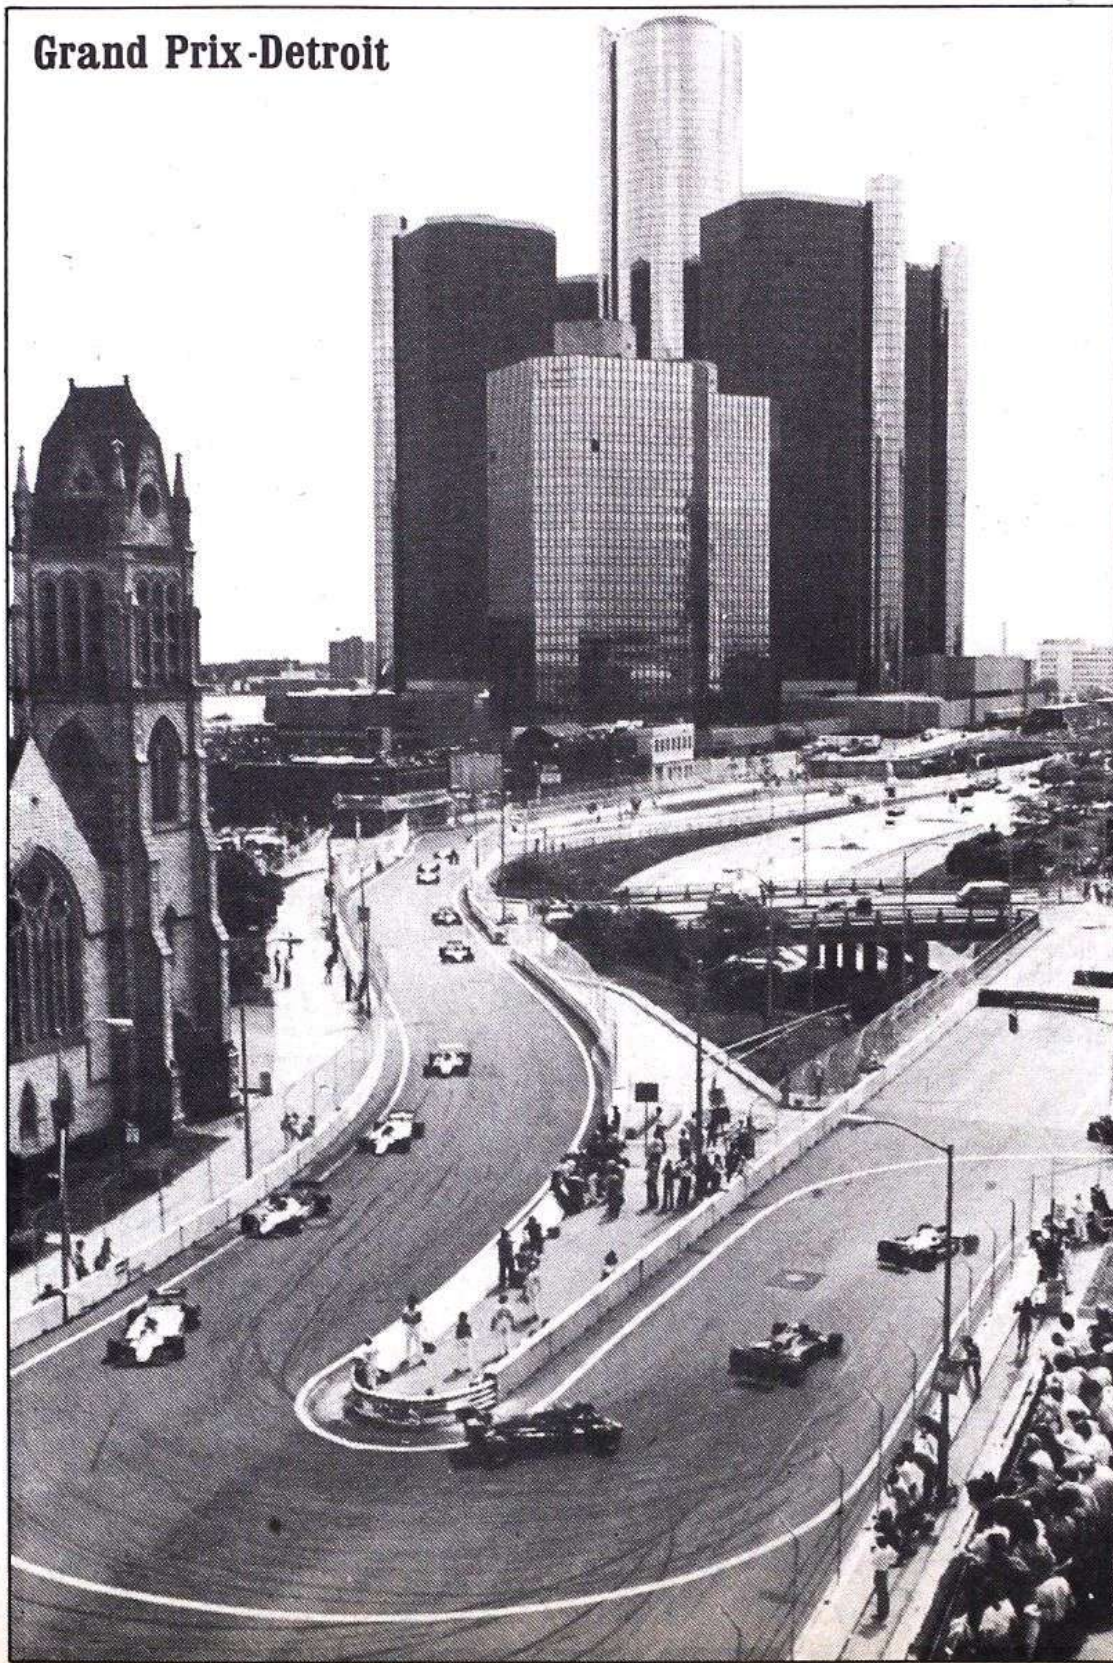

We are happy the PCHA happens to know what it is doing.

And, may we suggest that township boards and city councils take a long look at some of the comments their representatives are quoted as saying on this page in the past week. They might find them revealing.

Say 'Yes' to Romulus

I have a professional interest in seeing the development of Romulus.

I'd like to commend Mayor William Oakley and City Council of Romulus on their foresight in determining the necessity for a sanitary sewer along Wick Road.

Every farmer and backyard gardener will agree that nothing will grow properly until the ground is prepared, properly, so it is with Romulus.

Intelligent, farsighted investors realize the strategic location of this property, and they understand the need of residents for goods and services.

With land and building costs at a present bargain the time is ripe for development of this prime area so important to Romulus.

The recent decision by the Romulus City Council says yes to developers, it says we'll work with you to develop our city. Yes to Michigan-good, yes to Romulus-better!

Since Romulus became a city 12 years ago, owners of the vacant land along Wick Road have paid hundreds of thousands of dollars in property taxes, while using virtually no services.

Their tax dollars have been spent to help provide schools and services for all the people of Romulus. They've invested their time, money and hearts into the dream of seeing quality development in Romulus.

Development will bring pride and value to your city. Development will add much needed funds to your tax base, funds that cannot be realistically generated from vacant land.

A broader tax base, possible through quality development, will maintain and increase benefits to all Romulus residents. Industrial and commercial development will bring to you the goods and services you now have to travel out of Romulus to obtain, travel which takes your money out of your tax base.

Residential development will provide future housing for your children so that they can continue to live and work in the community they grew up in and call home....because, most important of all development will bring employment to the people of Romulus now and in the years to come.

Citizens and businessmen and women of Romulus I hope you will join me when I say thank you Mayor Oakley, thank you Romulus City Council, together we'll see Romulus grown and prosper.

Of champs and politics

Tom Mooradian
Managing Editor

He was slender. Handsome. And his face was creamed with Lemon. His face was creamed with lemon pie. And four-year-old Joshua Waugh was a winner. A real champ. The champ of the Associated Newspapers' Westland Festival Pie-Eating contest.

But, unfortunately, we couldn't extract a single quote from this young man. In fact, he looked as if he just went through torture. There were those big, salty tears rolling down from his eyes to his cheeks.

He looked at me, and I looked at him. He wondered what I wondered: What were we doing there?

It was beautiful at Westland Festival, despite the early morning rains.

It was beautiful, too in Romulus where they celebrated the Fourth with a parade and in Van Buren where firecrackers exploded and spirits were high despite an economy that refuses to respond to tax cuts.

The Fourth always seems to be the perfect day for politicking. The cadres of full-time politicians realize that to keep their jobs they have an endless task of appeasing the voters.

And where voters are, that's where politicians will head in an election year.

Politicians, I have also learned, are a lot like sports officials. Referees. Umpires — if they can please just half of the fans on any one given decision, they won't be battered or batted around.

Like one ref once said: "Every time I blow my whistle I know half of the fans are going to boo me." It is imperative, also, never to turn your back on your rivals.

Well, the Fourth is over. And now we look forward to "D" Day — August 10 — a day that promises to be one of the most exciting primaries in recent history.

Like the character out of an O'Henry story who wished he had a newspaper with all the race track results before the fact, I, too, would like to see an Aug. 11 newspaper so that I may come up with some startling revelations for our Aug. 10 edition.

Just think, I would be able to answer such key questions as who would be the county executive; or win the 38th district state rep Democratic race; or will Edward Mahalak defeat his young challengers - Jim Kosteva and Roger Cararet? in the 37th District?

And who will emerge as the county commissioner in the newly created 11th district — Milton Mack? Loren Bennett? Or Edward D'Angelo?

The grandiose dreams of politicians and reporters.

Give some of the land back to the people

By BERNARD F. HILLENBRAND

There's a monkey wrench in the government's recent plan to sell surplus federal land.

Sure, the deal could reduce our trillion-dollar deficit. But it again raises the specter of a far-off federal presence making decisions on critical local problems.

The United States owns over 700 million acres of land, one-third of the nation. Until recently, when property was declared surplus it was first offered to other agencies and then to states and localities for economic development, housing, parks and utilities. Governments, and some non-profit institutions, paid little or nothing for the land.

This is as it should be. Under the president's New Federalism program, counties are going to assume vast new responsibilities. They need adequate resources. Discounted land transfers are one resource.

Localities deserve land in exchange for providing public services on government land, and for educating children of military families. Localities receive little or no taxes from federal installations. Two programs that compensate locals for their expenses are being cut.

To date, donations represent 40 percent of all U.S. land transfers.

U.S. Office of Management and Budget Director David A. Stockman wants to charge the full market value for such transfers, except when the land is used for prisons.

This proposal would eliminate transfer of land for public purposes. Local governments would be priced out of the market.

Of course some parcels should have been sold long ago.

"Existing policies are a blessing and a curse," says Kitsap County, Wash., Commissioner John Horsley. "While protecting resources, they also preclude growth, and strap local governments dependent on property taxes. Many counties are 80 to 95 percent federally-owned. It is vital surplus land be returned to the tax rolls."

It is popular in Washington to claim that the locals haven't made best use of 1,200 previous surplus land grants. In fact, Stockman could find only 62 sites where there was any question of impropriety. Some are owned by institutions, not governments. Of these cases, only 27 are undeveloped. That is not surprising since most local budgets are spent providing citizens with mandated services.

Sen. Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) recently told his peers, "Uncle Sam's coffers are brimming with valuable properties we can do without. In the past, these properties were most often given away to other federal agencies — or failing that, to state and local government.

"In many cases, those who receive these gifts would conjure up reasons for needing the properties, and often later did not put them to good use. But who can blame them? If you are offered something for nothing, you can probably think of some way to use it. In view of our economic situation, we simply cannot afford to give away government property, except under the most unusual circumstances."

It is not correct to say localities receive "something for nothing". Converting an Army barracks to a university or a Nike missile base to a park is a costly process. Long-term operation and maintenance add to the obligation. Most governments are very cautious about accepting land they cannot take care of.

Before charging mismanagement by locals, federal officials should get their own land in order. Secondly, they should take a careful look at how and why local governments agree to assume responsibility for federal land.

There are hundreds of outstanding examples illustrating successful use of surplus federal land. The best are those that create jobs. Typical of many industrial parks is the former Brookley Air Force Base in Mobile, Ala. The businesses located here could have rented directly from the federal government. But it's the city that maintains the water, sewers and roads. Local government, therefore, must be involved in planning industrial locations. Modest profit on the land helps pay utility costs.

"If a county can't afford land for public purposes," says Horsley, "essential economic development may not occur. In five Utah counties, for example, there is no money for airport expansion. The air strips are surrounded by federal property. Yet such expansion would improve the economy."

Obviously, Stockman's scheme would wreak havoc with responsible, orderly community planning.

Among the most maligned land transfers is the 150 acres Clark County (Las Vegas), Nev., recently received from the U.S. Bureau of Land Management (BLM) for a police station and golf course. The site is near the airport. Zoning prohibits structures more than one story high. Yet Sen. Percy insists the government should have gotten more than the annual rent of $10. He says the parcel is worth $18 million to hotel developers. Well, existing hotels aren't prospering these days, and developers aren't buying up other BLM land. Furthermore, the county negotiated with BLM for seven years before it received the land. A developer would have long gone bankrupt.

Clark County citizens will benefit from the golf course — and the jobs it creates.

Now let's turn to those federal and state mandates.

One law defines how counties must deal with garbage. New requirements from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency are very expensive to implement. So when Interior Secretary James G. Watt offered to free up federal land last year under his "Good Neighbor" program, more than 39 western communities requested land for waste treatment. Several others need water plants. Ironically, federal facilities get their water — and dump garbage — into municipal systems. Stockman, meanwhile, has stalled all such transfers.

Other laws require local governments to provide housing for the poor. The county of Santa Barbara, Calif., is among those that have surplus land for this purpose. They have converted a U.S. Army Reserve Center into 24 units of housing for low-income elderly people.

Although I believe lands rich in natural resources can best be protected by federal ownership, conservation also demands intergovernmental cooperation. For example, county officials are proud of the parks they have built on the banks of U.S. Army Corps of Engineers flood control projects, such as Dorchester Park on Whitney Point Reservoir in Broome County, N.Y.

Beach access, urban sprawl and agricultural land preservation are similar conservation issues that worry local officials.

Under existing law, the U.S. General Services Administration and the Interior Department supervise surplus land sales. Now the agencies must report to a Property Review Board of Cabinet officials.

The president should create an advisory committee of public officials to provide information to the Cabinet on how their decisions will affect the economic fabric of communities. They need to know if local government can extend police and fire protection to new neighbors. They need to know if loss of public access to the land will cause hardship. Gov. Ed Herschler of Wyoming, for example, has said selling of federal grazing land would cause widespread unemployment.

Ultimately, it's a question of equity. If the government is representative of the people, it is only fair to give some of its land back to the people.

Candidates: Stick to issue

EDITOR — I would like to respond to the "Fool who challenges Faust" whose letter appeared in the paper.

As a candidate for office, your job is to get elected of course.

But I hope you will stick to the facts when you state issues. There is no other Senator in Lansing who is more respected or admired than Bill Faust.

And, there are politicians and public servants. Faust is not your "politician", but a true dedicated public servant.

As an auto worker myself, and a UAW member, Faust has done a good job in trying to save this state. That is his job.

We, the people elected him to do a job.

Yes, he voted for the temporary income tax sir, but you state that anyone who believes that increase is only temporary is a fool. Sorry, but you called yourself that, not me. The increase "is only temporary", for the legislature will not be in session when it expires!

Yes, Bill Faust joined with the governor to rescue the state. But can you imagine Mr. Bales the cuts in the budget that would have had to be made in order to balance it? You show no signs of sensitivity to your own former colleagues in the UAW!

Those cuts could have only hurt them more... benefits to help the needy. Nobody likes tax increase, but it temporary or permanent, but in this case, we had no choice.

You tried to saddle Bill Faust with rising school taxes! Shame! Shame! If you had ANY idea what you were talking about, you wouldn't make such "foolish" statements. There is no other district in Michigan that its Senator has gotten more money than Faust has for the 13th! Talk to any of his school boards. And, you the people vote for the school millages, NOT the Senate.

Another point you brought out Mr. Bales was the workers compensation issue. As a former UAW member as you state you are, and myself a member, you know as well as I the abuses that have taken place in the former program. There had to be changes to make it worthwhile to do business in Michigan. The insurance costs were staggering. The Legislature finally came up with a package that gave this state some sort of responsibility in this area. You spoke about the small businessman. Why don't you ask him what he thinks of workers comp costs today compared to before!

Taxes are an issue in this campaign. There is no way to get around it. How convenient it was for you Mr. Bales, to leave out some very important items when you spoke about Bill Faust.

Before assuming the Majority Leader position, the Legislature was on a spending binge with travel, and office decorating and the like. There was politics as usual rampant.

As Majority Leader, Faust has cleaned up the smoke-filled backrooms and brought it public.

Faust trimmed Senate expenditures by requiring senators to get approval from the majority leader before traveling, hiring staff, or making any other types of expenditures.

Senate travel costs have dropped dramatically. Faust also abolished the senate seniority system of making committee assignments in order that new, fresh blood could get a shot at improving the state's operations.

Mr. Bales and people of the old 13th and new 12th District... The things Senator Bill Faust has done aren't necessarily obvious, because he isn't your ordinary grandstanding politician.

But what he has done is basic and important. Whether we agree with him or not, it is very reassuring that you know he feels he is doing good for his people back home. There is more accountability now, more than ever before in the senate because of Bill Faust.

A few years back, the Detroit News sponsored a poll of the top legislators. Sen. Bill Faust came in second in the state. I believe we as constituents and Bill Faust got short-changed. He's No. 1 in by book anyway.

The meaning of our flag

EDITOR — When I was a young boy, families used to display flags in their front windows to show that a father, husband, or son was in one of our armed forces. The number of blue stars in the center of the flag indicated the number of loved ones from that family serving our country in a World War.

I was told a gold star meant a loved one had died for his country. A silver star meant missing-in-action.

I was also told that one of the reasons for the war was to keep America free — to allow every citizen his or her inalienable rights to freedom of speech and to involvement in our country's political process.

I trust all Americans — even teachers — will exercise and be allowed to exercise these rights which so many have defended died for.

Those garage sale rules

EDITOR — My letter is in response to your column in Thursday's Wayne Eagle, June 10th edition.

Mona Grigg's column about garage sale etiquette was very informative, however, no mention was made of what I, an owner of a corner lot, would think would be "Rule #1."

When posting signs on someone else's "private property", it should be common courtesy to ask the owners of that property for permission before they post their garage sale or other signs. Some people do not want their property to be used as a community billboard by inconsiderate garage sale trespassers and their signs that they almost never come back for!

Personally, I would not mind if someone had the decency to ask me if I would mind them posting their signs on my property; however, in the 11 years that I have been a property owner in the city of Wayne I have never met anyone yet with enough common sense to do so!

From now on I have one set rule of my own: Those that don't ask, don't use (my property)!

One rule for those that may ask is this: Please don't nail directly into any of my trees.

Please print this so that future sign posters will realize that the nearest corner lot with a few trees on it is not there for the sole purpose of hanging their signs on. (Which they always seem to do with the largest nails they can find.)

Thank you for your time, I hope this letter turns a few inconsiderate trespassers into friendly neighbors instead of neighborhood antagonists.

Sincerely,
R. E. UTLEY

On Dungeons, Dragons story

EDITOR — This letter is in reference to the article "Clergyman Cautions School About Spiritual Vale of Game," by Sue Bachand, which appeared in the February 11, 1982 edition of the Canton Eagle.

TSR Hobbies, Inc. is attempting to inform publications of the proper use of its DUNGEONS & DRAGONS trademark. We would appreciate it if you would follow the guidelines as set out below in any future reprints of the article:

1 - The trademark should always appear in all caps, preferably bold face.

2 - An ampersand (&) should be used rather than the word "and" spelled out, i.e., DUNGEONS & DRAGONS Fantasy Role Playing Games.

3 - The designation " " should be noted at the right-hand shoulder of the first use of each trademark mentioned in the article. It is not necessary to repeat such designations thereafter.

4 - Each trademark should always be used as an adjective followed by a generic term, i.e., DUNGEONS & DRAGONS Adventure Game; DUNGEONS & DRAGONS tournament.

5 - The following statement should appear either as a footnote or at the end of the article: "DUNGEONS & DRAGONS is a registered trademark owned by TSR Hobbies, Inc."

Thank you for your cooperation in these matters.

'Fooled again' by Lansing?

EDITOR — Many of our citizens are about to be "Fooled again" by Lansing's politicians.

Lansing refuses to believe that our bad reputation for having an unhealthy, unproductive business climate is principally caused by our taxing and spending and regulating policies put upon us by self-serving, special interest legislators who have driven many employers out of the state or worse yet out of business entirely.

It does not take a genius to know that Michigan must lower the tax burden on all of our citizens.

Some of our political leaders are finally recognizing that property taxes must be reduced... but, they offer a shift to other taxes. A shift will not correct our dilemma.

The people want a Tax Cut not a Tax Shift. People are asking, "Where are the Tisch Petitions?"

Thousands of petition forms are in circulation but signatures are slow in returning to us.

We need tens of thousands of signatures before July 5 so that come next November's election the voters can have a choice as to how best to correct our severe economic condition.

We need many of your readers to help us collect signatures in these last crucial days. We'll gladly mail petitions to anyone who calls us at area code 517-651-5874. Volunteers are on duty from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. every day.

The Tisch Tax Cut is a finely tuned Michigan constitutional amendment conceived to deliver the same benefits, over the next four years, that the people of California and Massachusetts are now enjoying... benefits of increased employment, higher earnings, no loss of public services or visible weakening of revenues (see current June issue of Nations Business Magazine.)

We can do it too if your readers will help us.

W-W schools are excellent

EDITOR — I would like to express my concerns over the derogatory statements being made regarding the Wayne Westland school system. As a parent and a taxpayer in this community, I feel what I pay in taxes is small compared to the dividends my children receive as a part of our educational system.

I get very frustrated when reading letters in your column from parents who have nothing positive to say about our school system. Sure, they don't have the answers to all problems, but I find it extremely difficult to believe that we have a system with no plus factors.

Students, who constantly listen to adults being negative about their schools, find their attitudes changing regarding their teachers and the educational process.

I feel that if both sides of the coin would band together in a single effort to correct our problems, instead of moving in two different directions, we'd have a school system that could not be equaled in the world!

reflections

When love strikes, you know

When I was a young woman and I began being more interested in mirrors than the refrigerator, my grandmother nodded to my mother and said that it wouldn't be long until I would be wanting to get married.

On my sixteenth birthday my best friend gave me a surprise party, and while the girls ran screaming and laughing from the boys chasing them, the mothers sat on the screened porch, behind the honeysuckle, and made guesses as to which one of the screaming little girls would be the first to be married.

Everyone knew that the ultimate in life was to get married.

And everyone had advice to give. Everyone from mother, grandmother, aunts and older cousins, the woman next door and old Mrs. Hawkins down the street, had special admonitions to give the growing girl the moment she stepped into puberty.

"Marry for love," Mother would say. "Make sure it is real love and not infatuation." Infatuation became a sinister word.

"What is infatuation?" I would ask, curious only because who knew when it might strike. It might even be just outside the door and might hit me the minute I got through licking the frosting pan.

"You will know the difference," Mother would say, and somehow I knew that deep down inside of me was something that could tell the difference between the two. So I went on licking the frosting pan.

"Don't marry a man just for his looks," old Mrs. Hawkins would say after she had watched me go back to the porch swing after whatever boy I had been sharing it with had gone off to play ball. "Looks don't wear well. They peter out, and then what have ye got?"

I never knew what I would have, and after thinking about it for a while, I would give the swing a push and let it rock lazily in the summer breeze.

"You ain't got nothing, that's what you got," she would go on, leaning on the porch railing, her weather-beaten face taking on a somber expression, while her blurry eyes looked off into the unknown. She gave me the creeps.

"I don't ever want to get as old as old Mrs. Hawkins," I would say to my mother, and she would shush me and say there were things a lot worse than getting to be as old as Mrs. Hawkins.

"What?"

But she could never tell me, and so I figured there really wasn't anything that bad anywhere in the world.

"Marry a man for his money," my oldest cousin would giggle.

"Men are always the same, but there's something about a lot of money that makes a big difference."

I wondered how come she hadn't followed her own suggestion, particularly when I knew she had robbed her youngest sister's piggy bank when no one was looking, but me.

Make sure the man you marry has a good business head," my grandmother would say, while she juggled the books of her dead husband.

I didn't pay much attention to any of them when I did fall in love and got married. As I remember it, I didn't care whether what I was feeling was love or infatuation. I just liked the feeling and aimed to go with it. I never questioned whether the good looks of the man with whom I walked down the aisle would 'peter out and leave just nuthin', and I had no notion, whatsoever, whether he had a good business sense or not. He was what I wanted, and for thirty-seven years I was positive I had made the right choice, and I was pretty happy with it for the most part. That is, I was until I read the paper the other day.

And then I realized how wrong I had been. There was no way that I could have been happy and content. I was laboring under a false illusion.

What I read was the report of a study made recently when researchers discovered that a woman with short arms should never marry a man with long arms. This kind of mismatching can cause lasting unhappiness, the researchers said.

I looked down at my short arms, and I looked over at my husband's long arms, and I began to cry.

His long arms put down the newspaper and he asked what I was bawling about and I showed him the article.

He read it and then asked what I thought we should do about it.

"We could chop off some of your arms, I ventured.

"Or we could put your short arms on a stretcher," he answered. "It could hurt a bit."

We both fell silent, the paper lying between us with the awful truth.

"Why don't we just keep going on like we are," I finally whispered. "It can't be any worse than good looks that peter out, or no business sense, or no money."

"And it can't be any worse than your cooking..."

way people talk to people who use words like "sticky, gooey and yucky."

I couldn't believe it. I said, "Do you mean to tell me that I'm the only one who's ever complained about that stuff?"

"Yup," he said. They had never, ever had another complaint about that particular brand of ham.

I couldn't believe it again. While I was thinking about it, he said something else: He said, "But isn't it nice to know you're the first at something?"

I was off the phone and out the door before I thought to question how he could possibly know I had never been first at anything before.

Slim tale of slime

If, by chance, you should one day reach into a plastic-pak of cooked, sliced ham and your fingers should become covered with something resembling slime, remind yourself that you read it here first: It isn't really slime.

I got it straight from the horse's mouth, so to speak, even though the ham in question came from the pig's... wherever (It's all right — you don't have to tell me. I'd rather not know anyway.) the stuff surrounding the ham is a highly concentrated sugar and salt solution that turns that way during the vacuum packing. It's all a necessary part of the preservation process.

I found that out after I had written a letter to the producers of the sliced ham — a company headquartered in Detroit — and asked them if they had ever opened a package of their ham after it had been packaged.

I was nice about it. I said, among other things, "Surely you don't knowingly package slime along with your ham. (Which, by the way, is delicious after being reprocessed to remove whatever it is it's covered with.) I can only assume what happens to it happens after it's been packaged for a while."

A week later, I got a phone call from a company representative.

He was nice about it, too. He asked me where I bought the ham slices and did I still have the package around? (Was he kidding?)

He asked me to describe the slime, which I did as best I could, being caught off guard like that with a phone call. (I said it was sticky and gooey and yucky.)

He said he would get back to me.

He called me again an hour later. "I didn't want to say anything before I knew for sure," he said, "but it was just what I thought it was." What it was was a highly concentrated sugar and salt solution that got that way when it was vacuum packed.

So far, so good, I thought. Now what are we going to do about it? "Tell you what," he said, "How about if we send you a coupon for a package of our 'Blank-Blank' hot dogs?"

Huh?

I thanked him (Listen, I can be as pleasant as the next guy) and said, "But what's going to happen now? Are you going to change the process to get rid of the slime?"

"Oh, no," he said, "It has to stay the way it is. It's necessary to preserve the ham."

I reminded him that their other products aren't covered with that kind of stuff. A gel, maybe, or a syrup, but not that... slime.

To which he said brightly, "Well, that's just the way it is!" (You can't blame him. It's the what's that sound?

Billy Idol is certainly worth a listen

BILLY IDOL
"Don't Stop"
"Billy Idol"
(Chrysalis)

"Don't Stop," Billy Idol's first American release since the demise of Generation X, has been out for about eight months now. With even a little bit of promotion from the record company it could have been a big, big hit. As it was, only Idol's remake of the Tommy James & The Shondells' classic "Mony Mony" received any airplay, and that was mainly from "oldies" stations. Too bad, because "Don't Stop," a four-song EP that cost around three dollars, was one of the finest releases of 1981. Only one song, "Untouchables," is less than a ten, and even that's pretty good.

Why Chrysalis Records didn't push the song "Dancing With Myself" I'll never know. It's the most danceable five minutes on record I've ever heard, as testified by its making Billboard's dance charts a year and a-half earlier AS AN IMPORT!

Put this on and, as trite as it sounds, you won't be able to keep your feet from moving. The fourth song is almost as good. "Baby Talk," a first kiss in 4/4 time, is another should-have-been hit single that improves with repeated listenings. Don't miss out on this one though, and if your local record store doesn't have it in stock, have 'em order it for you.

"Billy Idol," his self-titled new album, isn't the instant classic the EP is, but it's still worthwhile. Side one is fantastic from start to finish, but the flip falters a bit.

"Come On, Come On" (not the Cheap Trick song of the same name) and "Dead On Arrival" are both good uptempo rockers, but "White Wedding (part 1)" is something else. It's like the Ventures meet the eighties and get real cynical about it... "It's a nice day for a White Wedding/It's a nice day to start again."

"Hot In The City" is an obvious attempt to be commercial, and it's an uncontested success on all counts. Radio has to play this one... I hope.

Other highlights include "Nobody's Business," a fine rocker in the old Alice Cooper (circa "Billion Dollar Babies"), and "Shooting Stars," which shows that Billy Idol is equally at home with slow numbers.

The biggest fault with the new album is its cover. If the record company still has him in their employ, then he's related to someone. Billy Idol, a good-looking guy, appears to be straight out of "The Return of Zombie Hawaiians."

Anyway, Idol has a voice (and songs) worth listening to, and you should do just that. The new album keeps sounding better all the time, but I'd still suggest getting the "Don't Stop" EP first. Either way though, you won't lose.

When it comes to shooting craps, Gary Moore of Westland has few peers. Nearly every month this Wayne businessman hops on a plane and travels to a casino in Las Vegas or Atlantic City to compete in his favorite dice game. Earlier this year he competed in the $250,000 Resorts International Championship of Craps Tournament in Atlantic City, winning an opening round before elimination. He's also competed recently at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas and in the West Indies.

Golf lessons are offered

The City of Westland Department of Parks and Recreation will offer junior and adult golf lessons at the Michigan Golf Center, 30000 Michigan Avenue, at Henry Ruff.

A junior golf clinic will be held for two weeks, July 12-14 and July 19-21. (Monday-Wednesday), with classes scheduled at 10 and 11 a.m. Children ages 8 to 16 may attend either hour of their choice daily for six days, at a charge of $15 for six classes, with only one hour of instruction per day.

Adult group lessons begin July 13 through August 10 on Tuesdays, with class times of 5, 6, 7, and 8 p.m. The cost is $25 for five, one-hour lessons.

Discount on golf balls are available to all who participate. For further information or to register, contact Michigan Golf Center at 729-5020, or Westland Parks and Recreation at 729-4560.

Canton parade entries sought

Participants are being sought for the second Canton Country Festival parade, to be held at 11 a.m. August 7.

To date more than 80 individuals and groups have signed up as participants in the parade, which will feature a float judging contest. Awards will be given to float entries in several categories and will be displayed in Griffin Park following the parade.

"In the Good Old Summertime" is the parade theme and those wishing to participate should call 981-2088 by July 15.

Control sound volume to catch wary bass

A bass is like an old man at a rock concert — he can't stand the noise. Bass are active night feeders during summer because they use sound waves to home-in on potential sources of food. Experienced anglers use topwater, sound-producing plugs to catch these wary fish, but they've learned to control the volume of sound such lures produce.

Knowing how much sound a plug should make is a matter of understanding what sound that lure is trying to imitate.

Fishing experts classify topwater lures as gurglers, splutters and chuggers. Each is designed to make a specific noise in the water, hopefully one that fools a bass into thinking it's the real thing.

Lures that gurgle have wide-winged metal or plastic lips and usually wobble when retrieved.

These are meant to imitate a swimming mouse or duckling.

Plugs with one or more small propellers are supposed to splutter, imitating a crippled minnow, or large insect — such as a moth — that has fallen into the water. Chuggers, lures with concave faces, are made to sound like other fish feeding at the surface.

Because sound in water is magnified five times as much as sound in air, a fisherman should work his lure so it approximates the level of sound the natural creature would make. Too often, fishermen cast and immediately begin retrieving.

It's better to let the lure lie quietly for 15 to 20 seconds, then begin the retrieve. This technique will vary according to the type of plug, but a straight-in, constant retrieve is seldom successful.

Which of Michigan's more than 11,000 lakes make up the state's 50 best inland fishing waters?

To find the answer to that question, the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) polled leading fishing authorities in the state. Fishermen of wide experience, outdoor writers, and fisheries biologists were asked to name the five inland lakes they considered the best in Michigan for fishing.

Their choices were weighted and tabulated, and the lakes receiving the largest number of points were selected for inclusion in a new guide for sport fishing.

Entitled "Michigan's 50 Best Fishing Lakes," the book contains a map, profile, and description of each lake. Anglers are given data on public access to the lakes, water depths and temperatures, game fish species found in the lakes, and much other information to help them improve their fishing success.

Copies of "Michigan's 50 Best Fishing Lakes" may be obtained for $6.95 each, postage and sales tax included, from MUCC, Box 30235, Lansing, Mich. 48909. Proceeds from sales will be used by MUCC, a non profit organization, for its conservation and education programs.

Westland hosts dog fun match

The Wolverine Dog Training Club will present its annual Obedience Fun Match at 10 a.m. July 25 at the Westland Multi-Purpose Arena, located on 6210 Wildwood, north of Ford Road.

Both mixed breeds and purebreds dogs will be accepted for registration at a $3.50 fee (call 295-7753 or 425-5163 to register).

According to Lori Benz, the club's training director, the fun match is a "dress rehearsal" for the World Series of Dog Obedience, scheduled July 31 and August 1 at the Westland Arena. Dogs and handlers from across the United States and Canada will compete for trophies and prize money totaling $2,500.

Admission for the World Series will be $2, but there is no charge for admission to the Obedience Fun Match.

Going back to Fellow's Creek

City Championship Golf dates are set

The best and the beginners usually may be found in the pack that gathers for the annual City Championship Golf Tournament.

And some of the best amateur men's golfers in Western Wayne County have participated in the competitions held annually to determine the make-up of city teams which go on to vie for state titles.

This year the meet will be staged on Saturday and Sunday, July 24-25 at the Fellow's Creek Golf Course and should again draw over 100 top-notch and some beginners.

"This tournament has always been popular with local golfers," said Bill Hawley, who serves as tournament director. "There are some players who come out there and compete for medalist honors; others who just want to see how much they have improved their game."

"But, for whatever the reason, we're urging that all those who wish to play enter the competitions as early as possible."

This year Romulus residents also have been invited to take part in a field that traditionally is made up of golfers from the cities of Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Garden City and Canton Township.

The 36-hole, two-day tournament is staged to determine separate city champions for the participating communities. The championships are held simultaneously for amateur male golfers. Competitors will play 18-holes on Saturday, then return for the final 18 on Sunday.

Flight competitions will be held for each city if the total entry is sufficient and trophies will be awarded to first, second and third place finishers in each flight. In case of a tie for a trophy, a sudden death playoff will be conducted to determine the winner.

Also, an additional trophy will be presented to the individual low scorer (medalist) of the entire field.

Wayne golfers will also be competing for the Lenny Anderson Memorial Trophy.

Golfers who reside in any of the six competing cities are eligible to take part in the tournament. The low five scorers from each city will play on the city team in the Michigan Parks and Recreation Golf Tournament. All other golfers will be come alternates in order of finish.

As in the past, only bona fide residents may represent a city on a team that will compete in the state tournament.

In order to enter, please fill out the registration blank accompanying this story. There is a $22 entry fee which covers green's and trophy fees. Please make checks payable to Bill Hawley, Tournament Director.

The entry form and the check may be dropped off or mailed to The Associated Newspapers, Sports Desk, 1982 Golf Tournament, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Michigan, 48184.

There will be no refunds after the first round of competition.

For further information, please telephone Tom Mooradian, 729-4000.

Belleville runner is No. 1 in Hawaii

As a high school distance runner and track star, Jon Cross earned national attention.

Cross has become an international celebrity now.

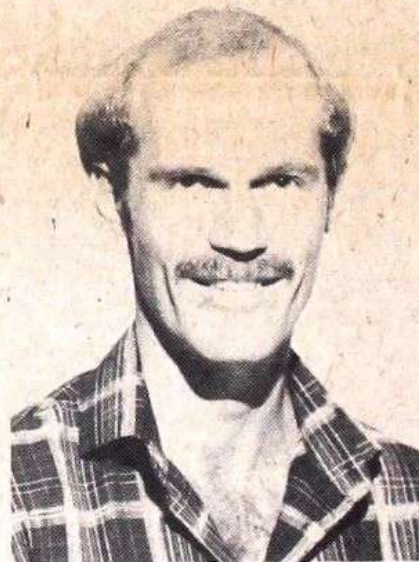

The former Belleville High three-time All-Area distance runner recently finished in third place at the prestigious "Pepsi Challenge", a 10-kilometer road race at Mililani Town in the Hawaiian Islands. Cross continues to be one of, if not the leading distance runner, in Hawaii.

Cross' over-all third place (but the first place finisher for those who competed from the islands) won him a trip to Los Angeles.

Cross, who has matured into a 28-year-old good-looking dentist, arrived in the islands two years ago and immediately got down to practice his first love — running.

In the Pepsi Challenge meet, Jon got a good look at Tom Wysocki, who flew in from the Mainland to defend his title. Wysocki won the event that covers 6.2 miles in a record 29 minutes, 46 seconds a year ago. In fact, Wysocki has not lost this race in the past four years.

"I'll go out with him and try to hang on as long as I can," Cross said prior to the race. "He might get away, but it's a good opportunity to find out where I'm at right now."

"I don't feel a lot of pressure because no one really expects me to beat him. After all, he was fifth or sixth in the (1980) Olympic Trials in the 10 kilometers."

Cross has won a score of Hawaiian meets. In April, he captured the Symphony 4-miler, the Tamanaha 15 kilometer and the 7-mile Wahiwa Pineapple Run, breaking the race records in all meets.

Prep fans remember Jon as an outstanding athlete who helped put Belleville on the map as a cross country team. While attending high school in Belleville, he was clocked in 4:21 for the mile, and 9:19 for the two-miles. While at the University of Michigan, Cross turned in performances of 4:13.8 and 8:53.0 for the two events.

In 1974 and again in 1976, Cross was instrumental in lifting the Wolverines to the Big 10 Conference cross country championships.

On the Islands, he has a different approach and strategy for each meet, and is quick to point out:

"The healthy competitive attitude of the local running community has rejuvenated my love of running," Cross said. "Each race here is a different experience."

Cross went on to say "that our basic training emphasizes low mileage and high quality. We attempt to maximize enthusiasm and consistency and to minimize boredom and injuries."

WYAA city baseball champs

Rallying in an extra inning affair, the Eagles turned back the Flyers 9-6 to capture the 1982 Westland Youth Athletic Association City Baseball Championship. The Eagles wrapped up the campaign with a 15-2 record while the Flyers were 11-5 on the year. Members of the championship team included: Chris Frieders (kneel-

Eagles capture city crown

It took a couple of extra innings, but the Eagles rule as the 1982 Westland Youth Athletic Association's City Baseball Championship.

Coach Bob Williams and manager Bob Thomason's ball club earned the coveted championship by beating a pesky Flyers' squad, 9-6 in a thriller that first appeared to be "easy pickings" for the Eagles.

Eagles' Jeff Detiler hammered a three-run homer in the top of the fifth which moved the eventual champs out in front 8-5, however, the officials nullified those runs because of some faulty baserunning.

The Fighting Flyers came back to go ahead in the bottom of the fifth, making it a 6-5 cliffhanger.

Chris Ostrowski led off the Eagles' sixth with a triple and was chased home on Ben Thomason's tie-scoring single. That's how the score remained after six complete innings, forcing the issue into an overtime.

The Eagles scored three runs in their half of the seventh inning and held off the Flyers in the final frame, winning the crucial game and title, 9-6.

"Both teams played exceptionally well," said manager Thomason, "and it was really one of those games that could have gone either way. We were fortunate to win."

The champs ended the 1982 campaign with an enviable 15-2 record, while the Flyers put away a 11-5 season and a divisional championship trophy.

Bingamen wins Romulus 'duel of undefeated' softball teams

The Fourth of July holidays are over and Romulus softball teams went back to work in their seven leagues in hopes of capturing divisional titles and qualifying for the playoffs.

In the Men's Open "A" League, the "duel of the undefeated" clubs — Bingamen Agency and G.O.C. — was billed as "The game", and true to its billing, the two teams fought it out to the end.

Bingamen's salvaged a cliffhanging 12-11 victory and kept its record untainted.

G.O.C. drew first blood as the losers scored four times in the first inning off of winning pitcher John Tinker who gave up 18 hits for the evening. Bingamen's, however, erupted for four runs in the third, tied the game at 8-all in the bottom of the fourth, then tilted the scoreboard for two runs in each of the sixth and seventh innings to hand G.O.C. its first setback of the current campaign.

Michael Skells doubled and homered while driving home three runs for the losers. Harry Jameson and Paul Gapa split four hits.

Bingamen's Michael Lambert collected three hits, including a double, while Hinds sliced a pair of doubles and Sower latched on to two singles and three RBIs off of losing hurler Sobienis.

Terry's Lounge scored in each of the seven innings and received three hits, including a homer from Carl Carlson as it crushed Super Y Market 17-10. Losing pitcher Don Lalonde, who gave up 20 hits. He served up three singles to Eric Talley and also two hits each to Earl Champagne and Mike Delarosa.

Winner John Haley was tagged for four RBIs and a roundtripper by Paul Stroutmeyer. He also gave up four hits to Lalonde and two each to Hardy and Chalmers.

In the meantime, the Romulus Jaycees flexed their muscles at the expense of Federal Mogul, 11-8, as winning pitcher Mike Hoffman turned in a seven-hitter. Dave Copper got two of those and Hank Hinzman blasted a two-run double for the losers.

Dave Cooper was charged with the loss. Cooper had his problems with Don Makowski who missed hitting for the "cycle" when he failed to get a homer. But Makowski's three hits accounted for three RBIs. Roy Hollis and Bob Blevins had three and two hits, respectively.

In the only other "A" Open game, Romulus City Drugs erupted for six runs in the first inning en route to a 16-8 victory over Lower Huron. Winning pitcher Jay Barton checked the losers for four innings before giving up five runs in the fifth.

The losers received a homer and two singles from Mike Lawaki. Checking in with two hits each were Mark Bratcher, Mike Nelson, and John Powers.

Paul DeBuyscher was the loser, yielding a total of 20 hits. Don McMann, who had a homer in his four hits and also three RBIs, and Tom McCloskey, who drilled a pair of triples, a double and single and also drove in four runs, sparked the winner's attack.

Earl Champagne and John Barton each had three safeties. One of Haggler's blasts went for a two-run triple.

Angie's Country Inn surprised Demyan's Antiques 13-7 as the winners broke open a close game with two runs in the fourth and three in the sixth for their third victory in eight starts. Demyan's is sporting a 4-4 record.

Want to improve your golf game?

A Romulus teacher feels she may have an answer to your golf game.

If you want to cut down on all those dubs, slices, hooks and missed putts, which send many golfers home from the courses in frustration, Dr. Lois Munkachy, a music teacher at Romulus High, believes hypnosis may solve some of your problems.

Dr. Lois Munkachy is also the Director of Self Help Institute in Westland which utilizes hypnosis in order to overcome fear and anxiety in everyday endeavors.

"I think every golfer knows in order to get a good drive, chip or putt, they must have the mind and body working together as one," said Dr. Munkachy. "This can be achieved by suggesting to the subconscious self that concentration will automatically occur as soon as the proper club is selected."

"When people attempt to use the conscious level as in will-power, they often get a feeling of inner conflict where by they fight themselves. Certainly in a game like golf, you don't want to be fighting yourself."

To enable golfers to overcome the ill effects of anxiety and mental blocks in their game, the Self Help Institute will offer a clinic this month.

The clinic will be staged at a cost of $25, beginning at 7 p.m., Wed., July 14. Persons interested should register by telephoning 699-7349. The Self-Help Institute is located in Westland in the Marquette Mall, 960 Newburg Rd., just south of Marquette St.

Seek runners for marathon

A Tuesday, July 13 deadline has been set for players to register for the annual Trenton Open Tennis Tournament. The tourney will be held from July 15-18.

There is a $1 entry fee for junior singles; $3 for junior doubles; $2 for adult singles and $4 for adult doubles. The brackets will be broken down as follows: 14 and under; 16 and under and 18 and over.

The senior group is 19 and over, and they will compete in singles, doubles and mixed doubles competition. Further information may be obtained by telephoning 675-7300.

Bingamen takes 'A' command in Romulus

Angie's struck for four runs in the opening inning, but Demyan's replied with three in the second and made it an 8-6 game when Angie's rallied for four more runs in the third off of loser Charles Syer.

Rick Prestia wielded the "hot bat" for the winners, as he blasted a homer, two doubles and a single and also drove in two runs. Teammate Terry Hoffman checked in with four hits and Greg Prestia helped out his brother with a homer and single.

Winning pitcher George Hargrove gave up a homer to Ken Ohanski and split six of his 16 hits between Tom Maguel and Scott Knight.

In other Class A games, Captain Nemo's destroyed the Golden Eagles 13-3 behind a 22-hit barrage which included a pair of singles and doubles from Dan Cordle. Ron Simenick collected three and John Eaton had a single, double and triple off of loser Ron Griffin.

Winner Rob Pomerwinski held the Eagles to 11 hits, scattering two each between Rank Gorny, Tom Caudin and Lyle Schoenfield.

However, Nemo's dropped a heartbreaker, 3-2, despite outthumping their opponents 10-6. Nemo's got all of its runs in the first inning, then John Haley buckled down and gathered "goose eggs" the rest of the way.

Haley did give up two hits to Tom Block and Tim Sumerick, while Tom Summers' base hit drove in one of Nemo's two runs.

Block digested the loss, giving up a pair of long balls to Danny Goodman and Haley.

Lower Huron S & A Construction handed the Eagles their eighth consecutive loss 10-3 as Debuyscher turned in a three-hitter. Paul Gorney, Russ Means and Pete Maas accounted for all three Eagle hits.

Griffin, the loser, delivered 12 hits, two each to Cliff McCurdy, Mark Bratcher, Mike Nielson and Randy Hall.

Romulus City Drugs worked overtime and enjoyed a 6-5 victory at the expense of Demyan's which blew a 5-0 lead early in the game. Ron Buckley slashed a single in the bottom of the eighth off of loser Scott Knight to produce the winning run.

Larry Chesno, McCloskey, and Haggler each had two hits for the winner.

McCloskey, the winning pitcher, gave up a homer to Kevin O'Hoske, and also a pair of hits each to Demyan and Ernie Henson.

Westland 'A' leaders breezes to victory

Before they took a couple of days off for the holidays, Joe Thomas throttled Royal Transmission 13-5 to remain in contention for the Westland Parks and Recreation Class A men's softball title.

With winning pitcher Dave Wyrbkiewicz scattering five hits, Thomas had no problems with the transmission people who received three hits each from Bob Killingbeck and Pat Bledose.

The winners got to loser Harry Allen for 13 hits, including an over-the-fence homer by Tim Abrahamski who wound up with two hits and two RBIs. Tom Guilfoye checked in with three hits all singles while Bob Backtrophe had a triple and a pair of singles.

Bob Pickney made his two hits count for two runs batted in for Thomas.

In the only other Class A game, Leaseway gained a 15-9 victory over Studio Lounge which blew a 7-0 lead as losing pitcher Tim Kelley faltered in the fifth inning and gave up seven runs after Leaseway had gotten on the board for four runs in the fourth and four in the third.

Bob Fullerton was credited with the win, but he was tagged for three hits, including a roundtripper by Jerry Holbrook. Jim Kholmman sliced two singles and two RBIs.

Andy Coppola had a single and a double.

Kelley was rocked by Bob Goodlaw, A.J. Vaughn, and John Sampson who each connected for a homer. Goodlaw turned in with three hits and three RBIs, while Vaughn also had a non-scoring double and Sampson finished the night with two hits. Leaseway's Mark Hay bagged three hits.

Over in Class B, Leo Calhoun carded a rare shutout over the Westland Stars, 15-0, in a mismatch called after five because of the mercy rule. Skip Walker paced the winner's attack with three hits, including two triples and 4 RBIs. Bob Allen Jr. had two hits, and Tom Henorell had a single and double off of loser Randy Fuller.

Winning pitcher Allen served up three singles - to Rob Rodriguez, Dave Hicks and Bill Horn.

Newburgh Station won a thriller 7-5 at the hands of the Silverhawks. Winning pitcher Ernie Righetti saw the Hawks tie it up at 4-all in the bottom of the third before his mates broke the knot with a pair of runs in the fourth and added an insurance tally in the fifth.

Floyd Carter drilled three singles and scored three times and Chuck Stubble rapped two hits for the winners, while Lew Kinder singled and doubled for the losers.

A superb defensive game between Great Lakes and Rizzo's ended in a Great Lakes victory 7-5 as the winners came up with four decisive runs in the sixth inning. Gary Bowman got the victory, beating loser Joe Blitz who wasted his three singles.

Ray Hannon doubled and belted a pair of singles while John Reisinger collected two hits for the losers.

Eddie Harmon turned in with three hits while Gary Knapp and Bill Floyd each had two for the winners.

Jake's shook off a pesky Flooring Unlimited 16-10 as Chappie Reynolds got the job done on the mound and also chipped in with three singles. Jerry Jarvella also belted three hits and T. C. Wilnot looked in rare form as he hammered an over-the-fence homer off of loser Art Neely.

Tom Wright, Stu Beadke and Mike Hodges provided the losers with four hits each, and teammate Eric Bagler latched on to a triple and a pair of singles for the losers.

Drivers duel for Flat Rock Speedway mid-season titles

Close point battles are being waged as Flat Rock Speedway nears its half-way point of the season, the Mid-Season Championships on Saturday evening, July 17.

All 3 of Flat Rock's classes, the Late Models, Figure 8's, and Street Stocks-have tight point races going at the present time for the track championships. All features events on July 17 will be started according to a drivers position in the point standings, with the leader on the pole of his respective race.

The Late Models have a nip and tuck battle going between Harold Cook (Sylvania, Ohio), Royce Cornett (Toledo, Ohio), and Dave Kuhlman (Howell). Competition has been tough this season at Flat Rock on the 1/4 mile asphalt oval, a 50 lap feature is slated for this division.

Bob Studt and Church Hall are out front in the Figure 8 division, with Gary Earley, Russ Champagne, and Dave Bazy within striking distance. Studt, of Dearborn Heights, has 4 feature wins to his credit going into the month of July. Hall, the defending Figure 8 champ from Toledo, has yet to win a feature. Early (Rockwood), Champagne (Taylor), and Bazy (Trenton) have been very consistent in their finishes.

The very competitive Street Stock division sees John Wyman of Carleton on top, with Randy Cronenwett (Livonia), Rick Bundon (Ypsilanti), John Marki (Troy), and Kevin Pelkey (Westland) moving up quickly. Over 60 different Street Stocks have been in competition at Flat Rock this season. 15' and 12' lap events are slated for the Street Stocks.

Time trials begin at 6:30, with racing at 8:00 p.m. The Speedway is located 1 mile south of Flat Rock on Telegraph Road (U.S. 24).

W-W 'eliminates' community college plan

Plans for the addition of a two-year community college in the Wayne-Westland School District are no longer "shelved," but rather eliminated, following the approval of a resolution by the Board of Education Monday night.

The resolution, proposed by Board Secretary Mildred Patterson, in effect abandons any further consideration of expanding the district's educational program to include the community college.

Approved unanimously, the resolutions changed "the term 'shelved' as it has been used to talk about the community college... to 'eliminated' in the future" and indicates the school district "does abandon any plans of creating a Wayne-Westland Community College in our area."

According to Mrs. Batterson, indications from those residents she had talked to were they feared the K-14 proposal could be brought up at anytime and passed without any further input from taxpayers.

"Hopefully this will put their minds at rest," she said. "What the board is trying to say with this resolution is that we understand their concerns and we know they are upset about taxes."

The proposal of creating a community college surfaced late last year as a way of protecting the district's highly successful adult-community education program from state interference. The school board approved a resolution of intent to pursue the plan and had begun public hearings on the proposal, when it was put on the back burner because of unexpected opposition from residents, who feared increased millage to finance its operations.

District officials had maintained that one mill of the 32 mills levied for the K-12 program operations would be pledged to support the college, with the K-12 program recouping the lost revenue through charges to the college for services rendered. As proposed, the college would have stressed vocational-technical training and would have centered around the Ford Vocational-Technical Center in Westland. Space at neighboring John Glenn High School also would have been utilized for classroom instruction.

According to Mrs. Batterson, "there is a great concern amongst the general population about expenditures and expansion of our community school district. Although I believe, and have believed, that it is in the best interest of this school district to continue to plan for the future, it is obvious that the majority of the population of our school district is absolutely opposed to the use of public funds of any nature to develop a community college in the W-W area."

Mrs. Batterson added that the resolution was initiated "by virtue of the obvious concern in relationship to expenditures of the Wayne-Westland School District."

Who will be recipient of Senior Citizen of Year award

Time is wanning in the search for Senior Citizen of the Year Award winners.

"Only four weeks remain in this contest," says Kenneth E. Oettle, Director of the Office of Services to the Aging (OSA), one of two co-sponsoring agencies for the awards. Deadline for receipt of applications by OSA is Friday, July 30.

"While a number of applications have been received for this award, I feel there are large numbers of older people certainly qualified in both the category of service and leadership," says Oettle. The fact that his agency has not been overwhelmed by the number of applications received to date in no way, he says, reflects a lack of dedicated, committee, or well-deserving older Michigan residents. "We just aren't hearing about them," says Oettle.

The contest, sponsored for the past several years by OSA and the Michigan State Fair, seeks to highlight the contribution of persons 60 and over to civic and social life. By singling out those individuals who have particularly benefitted their peers in the categories of leadership and service, the Commission and OSA, says the Director, believes we are presenting an accu-

They have pride in Romulus

When the Romulus Central Business District Association looked around for some young men and women to honor it didn't have to search long or far. They singled out Bernie Solo (from left, in front), Andrea Hughes and Randy Hogue for their exceptional mural painting that decorates one of the walls at the Romulus Auto Supply. Pictured with the talented young artists are Joyce Palmer, (center, back row) who served as Romulus Chamber of Commerce president last year and is an official with the RCBDA; Louis Blitz (second from right), owner of the store, and Bill Simmonds, owner of Bilmar's Super Market in Romulus and instrumental in the rejuvenation of downtown Romulus.

Hit-run driver sought

Westland Police Department is looking for persons who may have witnessed, or saw something, that could help them solve a hit and run accident which occurred early Sunday (June 27) morning on Hix Road just north of Warren Road.

Sustaining head injuries in the accident was 17-year-old Steven Kazmierski of Westland, who was treated at Wayne County General Hospital before being transferred to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor, where he died on July 1.

According to Police Officer Peter Brokas, of the department's Traffic Bureau, Kazmierski and two companions, also Westland residents, were walking northbound on Hix, north of Ford Road, at about 1:15 a.m., when the driver of a passing vehicle, northbound on Hix, north of Ford said "get off the road."

Kazmierski apparently hol-lared back, asking what was said. The trio continued walking and was about a tenth of a mile north of the Warren Road intersection, when, after hearing the sounds of an approaching northbound car, crossed to the westside of the road.

That car crossed the center line and struck Kazmierski, propelling him 40 feet down the roadway. According to his two companions, the car then left the scene, gaining speed as it departed.

Police officers are uncertain if the initial exchange and the accident are related, although the cars in both instances were small. Brokas said there is a possibility that the first car turned around and came back at the group. He added that indications at the accident scene were that the car did not swerve, but rather had been positioned across the center-line before striking Kazmierski.

Brokas said the victim's clothing will be sent to the State Police Crime Lab to see if it might contain trace evidence, and he is planning to have Kazmierski's two companions hypnotized to see if they can recall more details of the accident.

Persons who have any information, or may have seen something pertaining to the accident, can contact Officer Brokas at the Westland Police Department at 722-9600 or the Traffic Bureau at 722-9633.
